

SOLUTION BRIEF (FORTRA)

Human Risk Management Advisory Services

Changing security behavior and culture isn't just about having a training platform – it's about having a strategy. Success starts with a clear plan and direction regardless of a DIY or managed approach to security awareness training. Fortra Human Risk Management (HRM) Advisory Services can help with the guesswork and build a security awareness program tailored to your organization's unique needs and priorities.

How Can HRM Advisory Services Help Your Organization?

Building a strong security culture isn't just about managing logistics; it's about strengthening an organization's people, the first line of defense against cyber threats. Security awareness training must be strategic, targeted, and efficient to drive real change within an organization. However, without expert guidance, where to start, what to prioritize, and how to make training meaningful across different roles and experience levels can all be challenging.

Helping employees become valuable assets requires a thoughtful approach that aligns with business objectives and encourages sustainable behavioral growth.

With expert-driven planning, customized assessments, and ongoing insights, Fortra HRM Advisory Services help you build an efficient, high-impact training program tailored to your organization's specific needs. Our approach ensures training aligns with compliance requirements, strengthens risk mitigation efforts, and actively engages employees. Through detailed metrics, executive reports, and yearly retrospectives, Fortra provides the tools and guidance needed to continuously refine and optimize your program. By partnering with us, you don't just manage security awareness – you elevate it, ensuring your organization remains proactive, resilient, and ahead of emerging threats.
