

DATASHEET (DATA PROTECTION)

Fortra's DP Select

Easy data protection for midsized companies

With 20+ years of experience, Digital Guardian has over 600 global customers, and protects 5.5 million users with an endless list of data protection use cases. In this time, we've learned quite a bit about our customers' needs in supporting a data loss prevention product. One key lesson is the value of people and their time when it comes to supporting a successful data protection program.

While Digital Guardian is used by many large enterprises with expansive security and IT teams, many mid-size organizations can't get an effective data protection program up and running quickly on their own. To help support these businesses, we offer Fortra's Data Protection Select, a bundle of data protection managed services and software for organizations with fewer endpoints to protect, priced to match.

DP Select includes the setup, administration, and monitoring of a tenant in our management console, along with access to our Analytics and Reporting Cloud (ARC) platform, which provides advanced analytics, reporting and simplified incident management.

Depending on your needs, we offer our Essentials, Plus, and Advanced packages based on the number of agents to protect, and the need for full managed services.

DP Select delivers the data protection that small to midsized organizations need

We know that protecting data is a full-time job—and that it can be an even bigger struggle for organizations with a reduced cybersecurity headcount. Leverage our experience creating effective data protection programs for organizations with mission-critical data but limited in-house security expertise.

Our tailored offering is built around essential use cases designed to secure your company's data without slowing down your business. Whether you're looking to meet fundamental data protection needs or need a premium data protection service, DP Select's tiered service offering gives you the flexibility to pick and choose the right service for your organization.
